ORTHO SHEETS
SOLUTIONS

NovaOrtho represents a wide range of plastics for use in the manufacturing of functional orthotics. For the functional design of orthotics, rigid materials lie at the core of construction and are expected to be easily malleable. Generally, the more severe the structural problem, the more rigid the material is needed for correction. We provide different blends in our material construction for different types of applications. These blends in sheet form will convert into comfortable, functionally enduring, and aesthetically pleasant end products for ortho applications.
